"RESIST WITH CARE THE SPIRIT OF INNOVATION UPON THE PRINCIPLES OF YOUR GOVERNMENT, HOWEVER SPECIOUS THE PRETEXTS."—Washington.

VOL. LXIV. GETTYSBURG, PA., TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 5, 1864. NO. 9.

U. S. 5-20'S.

THE Secretary of the Treasury has not yet given notice of any intention to withdraw this popular Loan from Sale at Par, and until ten days notice is given, the undersigned, as "General Subscription Agent," will continue to supply the public.

The whole amount of the Loan authorized is Five Hundred Millions of Dollars. Nearly Four Hundred Millions have been already subscribed for and paid into the Treasury, mostly within the last seven months. The large demand from abroad, and the rapidly increasing home demand for use as the basis for circulation by National Banking Associations now organizing in all parts of the country, will, in a very short period, absorb the balance. Sales have lately ranged from ten to fifteen millions weekly, frequently exceeding three millions daily, and as it is well known that the Secretary of the Treasury has ample and unfailing resources in the Duties on Imports and Internal Revenues, and in the issue of the Interest-bearing Legal Tender Treasury Notes, it is almost a certainty that he will not find it necessary, for a long time to come, to seek a market for any other long or permanent Loans, the Interest and Principal of which are payable in Gold.

Prudence and self interest must force the minds of those contemplating the formation of National Banking Associations, as well as the minds of all who have idle money on their hands, to the prompt conclusion that they should lose no time in subscribing to this most popular Loan. It will soon be beyond their reach, and advance to a handsome premium, as was the result with the "Seven Thirty" Loan, when it was all sold and could no longer be subscribed for at par.

It is a Six per Cent. Loan, the Interest and Principal payable in Coin, thus yielding over Nine per Cent. per annum at the present rate o premium on coin.

The Government requires all duties on imports to be paid in Coin; these duties have for a long time past amounted to over a Quarter of a Million of Dollars daily, a sum nearly three times greater than that required in the payment of the interest on all the 5-20's and other permanent Loans. So that it is hoped that the surplus Coin in the Treasury, at no distant day, will enable the United States to resume specie payments upon all liabilities.

The Loan is called 5-20 from the fact that whilst the Bonds may run for 20 years, yet the Government has a right to pay them off in Gold at par, at any time after 5 years.

The Interest is paid half-yearly, viz: on the first days of November and May.

Subscribers can have Coupon Bonds, which are payable to bearer, and are $50, $100, $500, and $1000; or Registered Bonds of same denominations, and in addition, $5,000, and $10,000. For Banking purposes and for investments of Trust-monies the Registered Bonds are preferable.

These 5-20's cannot be taxed by States, cities, towns or counties, and the Government tax on them is only one-and-a-half per cent., on the amount of income, when the income of the holder exceeds Six Hundred dollars per annum; all other investments, such as income from Mortgages, Railroad Stock and Bonds, etc., must pay from three to five per cent. tax on the income.

Banks and Bankers throughout the Country will continue to dispose of the Bonds; and all orders by mail, or otherwise promptly attended to.

The inconvenience of a few days' delay in the delivery of the Bonds is unavoidable, the demand being so great; but as interest commences from the day of subscription, no loss is occasioned, and every effort is being made to diminish the delay.

Subscription Agent.

A FORTUNE FOR ALL!

EITHER MEN OR WOMEN!!

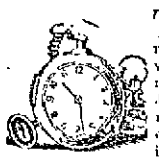

NO HUMBUG, but an entirely new thing. Only three months in this country! No clap-trap operation to gull the public, but a genuine money-making thing! Read this Circular of instruction once only, and you will understand it perfectly. A lady has just written to me that she is making as high as TWENTY DOLLARS SOME DAYS! giving instructions in this art. Thousands of Soldiers are making money rapidly at it. No one can fail to be urged to patronize it. It is a thing that is of better than anything ever before offered. You can make money with it at home or abroad—on steamboats or railroad cars, and in the country or city. You will be pleased at its pursuing it, not only because it will yield a handsome income, but also in consequence of the general information which it elicits. It is pretty much all profit. A mere trifle is necessary to start with.

There is scarcely one person out of the hundreds who ever pays any attention to advertisements of this kind, think ing they are humbugs. Consequently those who do send for instructions will have a broad field to make money in. There is a class of persons in the world who think that because they have been humbugged out of a dollar or so, that everything that is advertised is a humbug. Consequently they try no more. The person who succeeds is the one that keeps on trying until he hits something that pays him.

This art cost me one thousand dollars, and I expect to make money out of it—and all who purchase the art of me will do the same. One Dollar sent to me will insure the prompt return of a card of instructions in the art—The money will be returned to those not satisfied.

Carrier's Address

TO THE PATRONS OF THE

"ADAMS SENTINEL,"

JANUARY 1, 1864.

A year has passed, and on the walls of time,
We hear the distant echoes of its chime,
And now, as often in the days of yore,
The Carrier comes unto each patron's door,
And shall, in simple and in honest verse,
The glorious scenes of the past year rehearse;
And praise the heroes who, in noble strife,
Fell nobly fighting for the Nation's life.

Hail, Gettysburg! a noble fame is thine,
Its fadeless laurels 'round thy brow entwine.
And midst the names which we shall ever love
Those shall be sacred, all other names above;
And generations yet unborn shall bless
Thy heroes, in their peace and happiness;
While from each heart an incense pure shall rise,
Which shall ascend to those above the skies.

Fair were thy scenes upon that dreadful day,
When Rebel hosts were eager for the fray:
All Nature smiled and lighted up the scene
With her pure presence, so lovely and serene;
The fields were robed beyond the reach of art,
And filled with praise each Union soldier's heart.
Alas! alas! how shrunk each soul with dread,
To know those fields would soon with blood be red.

On came the Rebels with their flag of "bars,"
While o'er us waved the gallant "stripes and stars:"
Host met host, but, like old Ocean's rock,
Our boys withstood the fiery charge and shock;
"Onward" was the cry from hill and lea,
"Onward" to death or victory.
Full many a soldier did a noble deed,
Led on to conquer by the gallant Meade;
The Rebels fly—they in confusion run,
And Heaven smiled as we the victory won.

The scene is changed! What means this consourse vast?
Has some bright fairy's wand been o'er us cast?
For lo! behold! the dignitaries of our land
Are here together, as one common band;
While thousands upon thousands come,
Each from their far and distant home.
What brings them here? It is to see
The graves of those who died to make us free;
To consecrate the Cemetery for the dead,
Who nobly for our Union their blood did shed.
Oh! who upon that scene could gaze,
And not be filled with love and praise,
To know and feel that those who died
Were objects of the Nation's pride—
Whose noble deeds shall ne'er grow pale,
Until both life and earth shall fail.

On history's pages we shall see with pride,
The name of Gettysburg stand side by side
With Eutaw, Yorktown, and the rest,
Whose glorious deeds did make the Nation blest;
While friend and foe shall give to us the praise,
That shall continue to the end of days,
While the bright laurel crown of fame
Shall grace the memory of our Borough's name.

God bless our Union—may it ever be
The home of those who from oppression flee,
And cursed be the traitor, whether North or South,
Who prates Secession with his bastard mouth;
Yea, cast him forth, a hated, loathsome thing—
A fitting tool for some despotic King;
While we shall bless, from father down to son,
Our Union—Homes—and Washington.

But shall this be? Awake, ye dead,
Point to the fields on which your blood was shed;
Point to the graves that made your children free:
Then ask yourselves if this shall ever be?
No! not while fields of Gettysburg remain
To mark the graves of all our gallant slain:
Not till a later and a better day
Shall Freedom see her proudest dome decay—
Not while our God the truth shall e'er preserve,
Shall our fair Union from her moorings swerve.

God bless our Country's sacred name,
Our laws alike, and all our hopes the same;
And we have ties that's just as strong as blood,
That will roll back Disunion's swelling flood
But if the cloud that now dark o'er us lowers,
Should burst upon us its ensanguined showers,
If the fair fabric which our Fathers reared,
By Rebel traitors should be scarred and seared,
Yet, like the far-famed Nazarite of old,
We to the pillars of the fane shall hold,
And the same shock that ruin round us throws,
Shall hurt destruction on our common foes.

You've read in books of that great King of old,
Who power had to change all things to gold,
But modern Politicians this reverse with ease,
Touch them with gold, they'll turn to what you please;
They'd drown our country in vast sea of blood,
If they but rode upon the topmost flood:
They take delight in spreading their base schisms—
Would split this Union on the rock of "isms."

Though 'mongst us men dissensions oft arise,
And one Disunion, and one Union cries,
Yet 'midst the female sex it is not so,
They never from the ranks of Union go;
They are for Union all throughout the land—
And, first of all, for Union—TO A MAN.

Now, patrons all, do not forget the dimes
To cheer the Carrier's heart in these most dreadful times:
And he will pray for blessings on each head,
That peace and plenty may around be shed;
And that each heart may feel an inward bliss,
While dwelling here within a world like this.

But, ere I close, I must—must not forget
The "SENTINEL," which guards our blessings yet;
For sixty years it has withstood the storm—
And still it lives, with kindly feelings warm.
It brings the news unto each patron's door,
And spreads its tidings fresh, from shore to shore.
All hail, old "SENTINEL," may you ever be
The herald of good news unto the Free.

Miscellaneous.

For what Children are Grateful.

Parents spend a life of toil in order to leave their children wealth, to secure them social position or worldly advantages. I do not underrate the worth of these things. Had they not been valuable there would not have been so many Providential arrangements impelling men to seek them. I would only show that there is something of infinitely greater value, not only to the parent, but to be transmitted to the child What does the child most love to remember? I never heard a child express any gratification or pride that a parent had been too fond of accumulating money, though the child at that moment was enjoying the accumulation. But I have heard children, though their inheritance had been crippled and cut down by it, say with a glow of satisfaction on their features, that a parent had been too kind-hearted, too hospitable, too liberal and public spirited, to be a very prosperous man. A parent who leaves nothing but wealth, or similar social advantages, to his children, is apt to be speedily forgotten.

However it ought to be, parents are not particularly held in honor by children because of the worldly advantages they leave them. There is comparatively little gratitude for this. The heir of an empire hardly thanks him who bequeathed it. He more often endeavors before his time to thrust him from his throne. But let a child be able to say, my father was a just man, he was affectionate in his home, he was tender-hearted, he was useful to the community and loved to do good in society, he was a helper of the young, the poor, the unfortunate, he was a man of principle, liberal, upright, devout—and the child's memory cleaves to that parent. He honors him, reveres him, treasures his name and his memory, thinks himself blessed in having had such a parent, and the older he grows, instead of forgetting, only reveres and honors and remembers him the more.—Here is experience and affection sitting in judgment on human attainments. It shows what is most worth the seeking.—Ephraim Peabody.

The Richest Incident of the Season.

This afternoon, on Conductor Frank Lyman's train, coming from Milwaukee to La Crosse, we saw the richest mistake of the season. In the fourth seat back of the stove, in one of the passenger cars, sat a gentleman and lady, sweet and gushing as the fairy ones of olden times. His arm encircled her waist in bear-like squeezing—his one hand toyed with her ribs—his other hand wandered around her amplitude and bonnet strings like a lost child in a berry patch, seeking a place of rest, and his eyes were fixed on the face of his fair companion with all the earnestness of a Romeo. In short they were the observed of all observers.

In the first seat back of the couple alluded to sat a demure-looking lady, naturally interested in the display of affection in front of her, so natural and touching. When the cars entered the tunnel, the gentleman was standing by the stove for a moment—When part way through, and while all was dark as night, he groped his way back, and just as the train began to emerge into the last glimmer of light, was a yell which startled the entire load of passengers. The poor fellow had gone one seat too far back, had seated himself in the wrong seat, and was trying his best to kiss the demure lady, who COULDN'T SEE IT. He lit out in a hurry, and with the most sheepish look we ever saw, took his place beside the girl, while the spectators were convulsed with laughter.—La Crosse Herald.

☞A characteristic story of the President is narrated in a letter from Washington. When the telegram from Cumberland Gap reached Mr. Lincoln that "firing was heard in the direction of Knoxville," he remarked that he was "glad of it." Some person present, who had the perils of Burnside's position uppermost in his mind, could not see why Mr. Lincoln should be "glad of it," and so expressed himself. "Why, you see," remarked the President, "it reminds me of Mistress Sallie Ward, a neighbor of mine, who had a very large family. Occasionally one of her numerous progeny would be heard crying in some out of the way place, upon which Mistress Sallie would exclaim, "There's one of my children that isn't dead yet,"

☞The Hudson Star relates the following creamy joke upon a swill-milk incident:

"A young gentleman of this city, while out of town, stopped at a hotel, not a hundred miles from Claverack, to rest and refresh his horse. Concluding he would take supper, he called for a bowl of milk. It was placed before him and he commenced lifting spoonfuls up and then pouring them back into the bowl, and making other demonstrations of dissatisfaction with the fare. Finally, called the waiter to him, he asked her, "if the milk had been skimmed?"

"Yes, sir, we always skim milk before we give it to calves!"

It is reported that the young gentleman did not ask any more questions.

☞Mrs. Partington is of opinion that Mount Vesuvius should take sarsaparilla to cure itself of eruptions. The old lady thinks it has been vomiting so long nothing else would stay on its stomach.

☞We see an announcement of a marriage of a Mr. Greenback. Now look out for an issue of legal tenders."

How the President Got Rid of a Bore.

Mr. Lincoln had been greatly bored by visitors of late, notwithstanding his indisposition. The Hon. Mr. Blowhard and the Hon. Mr. Doolittle have been calling upon his Excellency to congratulate him on his message and his proclamation; gentlemen in the humble walks of civil life have been here for the first time, and couldn't leave without seeing the successor of George Washington; persons with axes to grind have insisted upon a little aid from the great American rail-splitter: and between them all they have given our convalescent Chief Magistrate very little leisure or piece of mind. An individual whom the President knew to be a very tedious sort of customer, called at the White House a day or two ago, and insisted upon an interview. Just as he had taken his seat, Mr. Lincoln sent for a physician, who immediately made his appearance.

"Doctor," said he, holding out his hand "what are those marks?"

"That's variolous, or mild small-pox," said the doctor.

"They're all over me! It is contagious, I believe?" said Mr. Lincoln.

"Very contagious, indeed," replied the Esculapian attendant.

"Well, I can't stop, Mr. Lincoln; I just called to see how you were," said the visitor.

"Oh, don't be in any hurry, sir!" placidly remarked the Executive.

"Thank you, sir; I'll call again," replied the visitor, executing a masterly retreat from the fearful contagion.

"Do, sir," said the President. "Some people said they could not take very well to my Proclamation, but, now, I am happy to say, I have something that every body can take." By this time the visitor was making a desperate break for Pennsylvania avenue, which he reached on the double-quick.

A German Heroine.

While at Iuka, Brigadier General T. W. Sweeney, who commands the 2d Division in General Dodge's wing of the 16th Army Corps, ordered that "no woman, white or colored, would be permitted to accompany the troops into the field," and all who had ventured thus far "would be immediately sent back to Corinth."

A German lady, whose husband is a soldier, determined to go with the man she loved, despite General, Colonel, Captain and friends, for

"When a woman will, she will,
You can depend on't,
And when she won't, she won't,
And there's an end on t!"

And her appeal to an officer, who shall be nameless, was peculiarly touching. Said she:

"You nose I pese in te army mit my man in Germany; I pese in te battle at Shiloh; I pese in te battle at Corinth; I never gives you any trubble, and I tinks I pese just so good a soldier as any body!"

Alas all her words were true in detail, the case was really perplexing, and when a guard was talked of to compel her to return, she avowed her determination to go, or drown herself in the Tennessee river.

A little strategy was suggested, and it sufficed to elude the dilemma, for she borrowed a full suit of men's toggery, including slouch hat and ragged blouse, and, as a soldier, fully armed for the fray, she crossed the Tennessee with other troops, and today is with her husband in the tented field.

☞A Yorkshire jockey had occasion to go to France. When he arrived at Calais he was surprised to hear the men speaking French, the women speaking French, and even the little children jabbering away in the same tongue. In the height of the perplexity which this occasioned he retired to his hotel, and was awakened in the morning by the cock crowing, whereupon he burst into a wild exclamation of astonishment and delight, and exclaimed:—"Thank goodness, there's English at last."

☞"I don't see," said Mrs. Partington, as Ike came home from school and threw his books into one chair, and his jacket into another, and his cap on the floor, saying that he didn't get the medal—"I don't see, dear, why you didn't get the medal, for certainly a more meddlesome boy I never knew. But no matter, when the adversary comes round again you will get it."

☞The late Judge P——, of the Supreme Court of the State of Ohio, was a noted wag. A young lawyer was once making his first effort before him, and had thrown himself on the wings of his imagination into the seventh heaven, and was seemingly preparing for a higher ascent, when the Judge struck his rule on the desk two or three times, exclaiming to the astonished orator, "Hold on, hold on, my dear sir; don't go any higher, for you are already out of the jurisdiction of the Court."

BREAD WITHOUT BUTTER.—Some fellow enamored of a young lady named Annie Bread, dropped the following from his pocket—we expect:—

"While belles their lovely graces spread,
And fops around them flutter,
I'll be content with Annie Bread,
And won't have any BUT HER."

☞The following is sharp:—First party—"You'll come to the gallows some day." Second, or addressed party—"Yes, the day you're hanged."

☞Come, Bill, it's ten o'clock, and I think we had beter be going, for it's time honest folks were at home."

"Well, yes," was the answer, "I must be off, but you needn't hurry home on that account.

A City in the Rocky Mountains.

The resident population of Virginia, Nevada Territory, on the 1st of July, was estimated at 15,000, the daily average number of transient visitors being as many more.—Main street, which is the Broadway and wall of the city, is some three-fourths of a mile in length, crowded with every grade and description, a large proportion being elegantly dressed males and females. The buildings of Main street are mostly brick, the first story iron, open in front. This gives a light, cheerful appearance to the street, especially in the night time, when brilliantly lighted with gas. Many of the buildings in the city are provided with vaults and salamanders; the four and five story brick and front fire-proof now going up, all have one or both these indispensable features. Some of the streets are so blocked up with lumber, brick and mortar, that teams are at times unable to get along.—Common laborers get from $2 to $4 a day, without board. The city supports four daily newspapers, a theatre, opera house, several churches, any number of negro minstrels and melodists, to say nothing of the institutions already enumerated above. At Wells & Fargo's banking-house and express office it is not uncommon to see tons of "silver bricks" wheeled in and out in the course of an hour. These "bricks" in shape resemble the ordinary fire-brick; but are much larger, and from nine-hundred and eighty five to nine hundred and ninety per cent. fineness, which is from ten to fifteen per cent. pure silver, averaging some $1800 each. The sight drafts sold frequently amount to $100,000. Sums of $20 and upwards are usually paid in $20 pieces. No paper currency there, nor in any of the mining towns west of the Rocky Mountains—Salt Lake City being the only place where paper circulates for money.

An Ordeal.

Mediæval ordeals have not yet quite exploded, as is generally imagined—at least not yet among the insurgents in Poland, as the following incident will show:—A Jew traveling in the neighborhood of Sanwalk was stopped by some Russian troops, to whom he had to give some information, and was then allowed to depart without molestation. Soon afterwards he was stopped by a band of insurgents, whose chief, without formality, informed him that he must die for having betrayed them to the Russians. In vain the Jew protested his innocence, stating that the Russians had inquired about the road to some neighboring village, not in any way connected with the movements of the insurgents. Only a few minutes were allowed to him for prayer. Afterwards a rope was thrown round his neck, and he was hung on a strong branch of a tree. But, wonderful to say, the branch broke. Struck by this incident, the chief said to the man, "Thy God is powerful; He has delivered thee. Thou must have told truth. Go in peace."—Jewish Chronicle.

French Ingenuity.

We shall begin to think the French next to the Yankees, for cunning and ingenuity, if we have a few more such practical examples as the following:—Two brothers in Paris, both excellent swimmers, follow the business of saving each other's life, in order to get the municipal reward of twenty-five francs. One throws himself desperately into the water from a bridge, while the other comes up unexpectedly, plunges in after him, and at last brings him safe to shore.

☞A robber recently broke into a house at Debreczin, Hungary, there being only the daughter, age 17, of the occupier at home, except an old man, whom he killed on entering. He demanded her father's property, and told her she must die, lest she should cause his arrest. Seeing that he was in earnest, she begged to be allowed to die by a swift poison, to which he consented. She took a bottle from a shelf, uncorked it, raised it to her lips, and then suddenly dashed the contents into his face and eyes. He fell howling to the floor, and next day died. The bottle contained oil of vitriol.

☞When asked how he got out of prison, a witty rogue replied: "I got out of my cell with ingenuity, ran up stairs with agility, crawled out of the window in secrecy, slid down the lightning rod with rapidity, walked out of the town with dignity, and am now basking in the sunshine of liberty!"

☞A certain Scotch friend of ours, who is not a member of the temperance society, being asked by a dealer to purchase some fine old Jamaica rum, dryly answered: "To tell you the truth, sir, I canna say I'm very fond of rum; for if I tak mair than six tumblers, it's very apt to give a body the headache."

☞A few mornings since we were relating to our family the fact of a friend having found upon his door-step a fine little male infant, whom he adopted, when one of the olive branches remarked: "Pa, dear, it'll be his step-son, won't it?" We thought it would, decidedly.

☞When the cold wind blows take care of your nose that it don't get froze, and wrap up your toes in warm woolen hose. The above we suppose was written in prose, by some one who knows the effect of cold snows.

☞A man in Orange county was found one night in a fulling-mill, trying to climb the overshot wheel. When asked what he was doing, he said he was trying to get up to bed, but somehow or other the stairs wouldn't hold still.

An English Account of Rebel Treatment of Wounded Prisoners.

The following is an exact from a letter written by an English surgeon with the Army of the Potomac, published in the London Medical Times and Gazette of August 8. It is one other, and necessarily an impartial testimony to the different methods in which wounded prisoners have been treated by us and by the rebels:

"The rebel wounded in our charge have fared, so far as comforts and attention went, as our own men fared. Before our supplies came up, they made no complaints; after their arrival they declared they had not had such a gay time since the Confederacy commenced to exist. The surgeons, in bringing their cases to the table, never examined previously if a man wore blue pants or gray, but looked simply at the nature of the wound. Had they been within their own lines, they could not have been so well attended to. I have seen now Confederate wounded in the hands of the Unionists, and Union wounded in the hands of the rebels, and I cannot but say that in acting the good Samaritan the North bears off the palm. At Chancellorville battle the rebels removed their wounded to be cared for at Richmond, leaving the 1,200 Northern wounded to lie upon the field. The rebel soldiers near them gave them what help they could, but the rebel Government did nothing—but confiscate the captured surgeons' cases and hospital knapsacks, looking upon them as Government property. On the misery being represented to those in authority, sugar, flour, bacon, and hard bread were plentifully issued to the wounded. This was all, they said, they could give, because it was all they had.—Still they could have done more; they could have removed those 1,200 men to Richmond along with their own wounded, to fare as they fared; they could have sent a detail of surgeons from their army at Fredericksburg to attend to them; and, from Richmond—only a couple of hours away by rail—straw, at least, might have been sent for them to lie upon. What would have been said had the Unionists acted similarly at Gettysburg?—had they removed their own wounded by rail, and left 10,000 rebels to lie upon the field with simply hard bread, bacon, sugar, and flour to sustain them, and with no surgical assistance, save the dozen medical men whom Lee sent over to take care of them? Had this been done, God help the Yankees! we would never have heard the end of it."

The Pennsylvania Senate.

Major HENRY WHITE, a member of the State Senate, is now a prisoner at Richmond; his absence will lose the Union majority of one vote in the Senate, which was given by the late election, and tie the opposing parties. There is no probability that Major WHITE will be exchanged, but too much that his absence will result unfavorably in retarding the organization of the Legislature, and interfering with its action. It must be, therefore, thoroughly impressed upon every Union man in the Senate that the organization, by the expressed will of the people, belongs to the Union party. The issue in the late canvass was between the friends and the opponents of the Government; it was clearly presented, and emphatically decided. Pennsylvania elected a Governor who is for the war and the Administration, and placed in the Legislature a working majority to sustain him. Any attempt to falsify the results of that election will be an attempt to thwart the will of the people, and an insult to the State. The Opposition have no moral right to use the advantage the accident of war has given, to retard the organization of the Senate, and no just claim to any part in its official management. The minority was intended to be a minority, by the people, and the majority should remember this and surrender no right, while acting in all courtesy to their opponents. The Pennsylvania Legislature is pledged this winter to a thorough support of the National policy, and no honorable man on the other side will make the misfortune of a brave soldier the occasion for an unjust appeal from the formal decision of the people.—Forney's Press.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEITS.—Twenty-dollar notes, Pottstown Bank, and five-dollar notes, Union Bank of Philadelphia, are in circulation. Both are so well done that they are considered very dangerous counterfeits.

☞"How is Europe bounded?" said a teacher to one of his little pupils. "I, thou, he, she, it," was the reply. "For shame, Johnny; try again." "Oh, please, sir, I remember now; that is the answer to one of my grammar questions, and I thought I was to be heard my grammar first."

☞Mr. Popp, of Poppville, in Popp county, fancying himself to be very popular with his lady love, popped the question under a poplar tree, when she referred him to her poppy, who, when asked for his consent, laboring under the influence of ginger pop, popped Popp out of the door under the tune of "Pop Goes the Weasel."

☞A Dutchman had two pigs—a large one and a small one. The smallest being the oldest, he was trying to explain to a customer, and did it in this wise: "The little pig is the piggest." Upon which his wife, assuming to correct him, said: "You will excuse him, he no speak as good English as me—he no means the little pig is the piggest, but is young little pig is te oldest."

☞The soul of a young woman is a pink rose; as soon as one leaf is plucked off the mates easily fall after. And a kiss may sometimes break out the first leaf.

RUSSELL'S SCREW POWER

Combined Mower and Reaper,

WITHOUT COG GEARING.

The Lightest Draft Mower in the World.

IT is the object of Farmers in purchasing a Machine to buy the best and cheapest. Both these objects will be attained by buying Russell's Screw Power.

The great amount of power lost in overcoming the friction of all Cog-geared Harvesters is saved in the Screw Power, by which we can offer the lightest draft Mower and Reaper in the world. This fact has been fully demonstrated by the various tests by Dynamometer and otherwise, to which the machine has been subjected during the last two seasons. Among the various points of superiority in this machine are the following:

The use of open malleable iron guards, with a steel plate or face, ground to a cutting edge. This, with the knives, gives a perfect shear cut.

Double Hinged Finger Bar.—No Mower can do good work, on all kinds of meadows, without a flexible bar. This bar can be raised and securely fastened, while passing from field to field.

Patent Adjustable Reel, performing its work equally as well upon rough ground as upon a level field.

There is no side Draft, or weight upon the horses' necks.

New and peculiar form of Shoe, which will not clog when mowing, with a light play when the Reaper is attached.

The subscriber, who is Agent for this machine, has fully tested it the last season, in wheat, grass, clover and oats, and feels satisfied that all who see this machine work will have no other.

A specimen machine can be seen by calling on the subscriber, near Gettysburg, on the Harrisburg road.

WILLIAM WIBLE, Agent.

CERTIFICATES.

We certify that we went to the farm of William Wible last harvest for the purpose of examining the work done by him with Russell's Screw Power Mower and Reaper. We found Mr. Wible cutting some of the very worst kind of lodged grain, and feel satisfied it could not have been done better by any other machine. It is the lightest draft machine we ever saw.

PHILIP WEAVER,
GEORGE BOYER.

We certify that we saw Mr. Wible mow with the above machine both in standing and lodged grass, with but one span of horses, and we consider it the best we ever saw.

Madame Zadoc Porter's Balsam is prepared with all the requisite care and skill, from a combination of the best remedies the vegetable kingdom affords, its remedial qualities are based on its power to assist the healthy and vigorous circulation of the blood, thro' the Lungs. It is not a violent remedy, but emollient, warming, searching and effective; can be taken by the oldest person or youngest child.

Madame Zadoc Porter's Balsam has been in use by the public for over 18 years, and has acquired its present sale simply by being recommended by those who have used it to their afflicted friends and others.

MOST IMPORTANT.—Madame Zadoc Porter's Curative Balsam is sold at a price which brings it in the reach of every one to keep it convenient for use. The timely use of a single bottle will prove to be worth 100 times its cost.

NOTICE. Save your money! Do not be persuaded to purchase articles at 4s to $1 which do not contain the virtues of a 13 cent Bottle of Madame Porter's Curative Balsam, the cost of manufacturing which is as great as that of almost any other medicine; and the very low price at which it is sold, makes the profit to the seller apparently small, and unprincipled dealers will sometimes recommend other medicines on which their profits are larger, unless the customers insist upon having Madame Porter's and none other. Ask for Madame Porter's Curative Balsam, price 13 cents, and in large bottles at 25 cents, and take no other. If you cannot get it at one store you can at another.

☞Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers at 13 cents, and larger bottles at 25 cents.

Battle with Reeves's Guerilla Band in Ripley County, Missouri.

PILOT KNOB, Dec. 28, 1863.—To General Fisk:

Official despatches from Major Wilson inform me that he attacked Reeves seventeen miles southwest from Donophan, Ripley county, Missouri, about three o'clock Christmas day, and killed and wounded thirty-five of the enemy. He captured one hundred and fifteen prisoners, including thirteen commissioned officers, with all their equipments and ammunition, and captured one hundred and twenty five horses. He also recaptured every man of Company C. captured at Centreville, with their arms, &c. Wilson says that the Third behaved splendidly, officers and men.

R. G. WOODSON,
Colonel Commanding.

WASHINGTON, December 31.—The Minister from Sweden and Norway, Count Piper, in accordance with instructions from his Government, to-day had an audience of the President for the purpose of presenting him, on behalf of the King, a volume containing engravings of the Royal collection of Arms. This is understood to be in reciprocation of a similar compliment, the President having a short time ago presented to His Majesty a pair of pistols of American workmanship — Suitable acknowledgments were made and mutual good wishes exchanged for the continuance of the cordial relations now existing between the two Governments.

SENATOR LANE ON CONGRESSIONAL CHAPLAINS.—A correspondent of a Western paper reports that Senator Jim Lane was seriously exercised at the failure of the House to re-elect Mr. Stockton. He was a good old man, "and besides, sir, he repeats the Lord's Prayer every morning, and before the end of this Congress he would have kept it up till some of these members would have learned it."

A BIT OF REBEL HUMOR.—The Virginia Rebels occasionally enliven the gloom and monotony of their condition by bits of facetia never elsewhere presented. Recently the President of the Virginia Senate has ordered a special election to be held in the city of Norfolk to fill a vacancy in the Senatorial representation from that city.— The thing is done with the utmost gravity, and apparently in entire unconsciousness of the existence of General Butler. But the "outlaw" will no doubt have a finger in the pie, notwithstanding.

☞A correspondent of the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser says that John Morgan has fought sixty-three battles, and has been successful in fifty seven; taken 59,000 prisoners, killed and wounded 20,000, and destroyed $50,000,000 worth of property; taken 50,000 stand of small arms, 50 pieces of artillery and 20,000 horses, and traveled 12,000 miles? What a whapper!

☞Lately was mentioned the marriage of the armless color sergeant of a Massachusetts regiment, Plunkett, to Miss Nellie Lorrimer. The wedding took place in Worcester, though the parties belong in Leicester. We have now an additional fact of interest connected with the incident.— When he left for the wars, Plunkett was engaged to a Miss Lorrimer. Upon his return, he considered his helpless condition and offered a release to his betrothed, which was readily accepted. Her sister was so indignant at this that she said she would marry the brave man herself if he was agreeable, and agreeable he was, and they married. The Hartford (Conn.) Post, on whose authority we relate this anecdote, says that "thanks to the generosity of the Brokers' Boards of Boston and New York, and of the people he has met since his return, Plunkett, the hero, is in independent circumstances pecuniarily."

CURIOUS WREATH.—A wreath is exhibited at a fair in Gloucester, Mass., this Christmas week, that is composed of the hair of one hundred different residents of that town, none of whom is under seventy years of age, while ten of them are over ninety, and one of them is a centenarian. The lady who made it is fifty, and has been four years about it.

A ONE LEGGED SKATER.—Among the numerous fancy skaters at Boston, no one has attracted more attention than a young man, who, having lost one leg, has learned to skate with the other alone. With some assistance from a crutch he propels himself vigorously.

PRESENT TO A CLERGYMAN.—Rev. E. E. Adams, pastor of the North Broad Street Presbyterian Church, in Philadelphia, was "surprised" a few evenings ago, by a member of his congregation, who presented him with a purse of $500, and other incidentals added, making $500 more.

☞Townsend Sharpless, a well known merchant of Philadelphia, died on Wednesday morning, aged 71 years.

Communicated.

On Monday the 21st of Dec, at the residence of Mr. Wm. Peters, in Butler township, Adams county, Mr. JACOB B. LEASE, in the 26th year of his age.

It is with sorrow that we record the death of so amiable, talented, and useful a man and christian gentleman, in the prime of his youth. A few years ago he left the comforts of a father's house, in the State of Ohio, and came to this county, among his friends, to recuperate his health. When but a youth, he was much afflicted with phthisic. Hence his bodily infirmities incapacitated him for manual labor, and being of an active and industrious disposition, his attention was turned to the cultivation of his mind, that he might be enabled to fill some useful position in society and the world. Nature and a liberal education seemed to have well qualified him, in manner and disposition to teach. Having for some years been engaged in this useful, though irksome vocation, he has not only gained for himself a name and character that shall live, though he is dead, but a proficiency in the art and theory of teaching, that few, indeed, obtain. He was dearly beloved by his pupils and much esteemed by all his patrons. His writings and public exhibitions speak of his moral and intellectual worth. In his demise the cause of education has lost a firm friend and advocate. The Teachers' Association will feel his absence, and the want of good counsel and advice, as obtained from his own experience. Dear children, (his pupils) you, whom he was wont to instruct, will no more meet him in your entertaining and friendly association. Friends and associates, he will no more greet you with his soft words of affection and regard. He fulfilled his mission on earth, and in the hope of a blissful immortality, he has gone to receive the reward of his faithful doing. The Lord had need for him in a better and holier work. Peace to his ashes.

MIRROR OF FASHIONS,
PUBLISHED QUARTERLY, AT 473 BROADWAY, N. Y.

THE special object and aim in the publication of this Magazine is to present Judicious, Reliable, and Practical Information in all matters pertaining to ladies' and children's dress.

Information of the greatest possible importance to Milliners, Dress-makers, and every lady who wishes to know the prevailing modes in New York and Paris.

To all enterprising ladies, and industrious mothers, we shall endeavor to furnish many useful and practical suggestions in relation to the proper combination of colors, choosing materials, including cutting and making dresses, and children's clothes, which of necessity must occupy a much larger portion of a woman's time, when no reliable authority is at hand to be consulted—suggestions which cannot fail to prove a source of much gratification, economy, personal refinement, and home comfort.

Do not fail to bear in mind that we furnish, in value, during the year, more than $3 in full-size patterns alone; while in plates, engravings, reliable information on fashions, more than can be secured in any or all the other fashion magazines put together, and yet the yearly subscriptions being only $1, with the extra fifty cents worth of full-size patterns sent as a premium, makes the yearly subscription to cost really only fifty cents, independent of the Carte de Visite. Do not fail to subscribe for the Mirror, if you wish to secure it promptly as it is sent in advance to subscribers. [Dec. 29.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold, under the name of Bitters, put up in quart Bottles, compounded of the cheapest whiskey or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get one Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with three quarts of Good Brandy or Whiskey, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Will give you a good appetite, will give you strong healthy nerves, will give you brisk and energetic feelings, will enable you to sleep well, and will positively prevent Yellow Fever, Bilious Fever, &c.

Those suffering from broken down and delicate Constitutions, from whatever cause, either in male or female, will find in Hoofland's German Bitters, a remedy that will restore them to their usual health. Such has been the case in thousands of instances, and a fair trial is but required to prove the assertion.

Remember, that these Bitters are not Alcoholic, and not intended as a Beverage.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D. Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them. J. NEWTON BROWN,
Philadelphia, June 23, 1861.

DISEASES OF KIDNEYS & BLADDER,
In young or aged, male or female, are speedily removed, and the patient restored to health.

DELICATE CHILDREN,
Those suffering from Marasmus, wasting away, with scarcely any flesh on their bones are cured in a very short time; one bottle in such cases, will have a most surprising effect.

PARENTS
Having suffering children as above, and wishing to raise them, will never regret the day they commenced with these Bitters.

LITERARY MEN, STUDENTS,
and those working hard with their brains, should always keep a bottle of Hoofland's Bitters near them, as they will find much benefit from its use, to both mind and body, invigorating and not depressing. It is not a liquor stimulant, and leaves no prostration.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!

And the friends of Soldiers. We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "Hoofland's German Bitters" will cure nine tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. We have no hesitation in stating that if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise would be lost.

The proprietors are daily receiving thankful letters from sufferers in the army and hospitals, who have been restored to health by the use of these Bitters, sent to them by their friends.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS!

See that the signature of "C. M. Jackson" is on the wrapper of each Bottle. Price per Bottle 75 cents, or half dozen for $4.00.

Violation of the Internal Revenue.

INTERESTING DECISION.—The following report of a case tried in New York, on Saturday—the United States vs. Henry Benner—to recover a penalty for the violation of the Internal Revenue Act, is of considerable interest here:

The defendant is a manufacturer of boots and shoes on Wall street, and had made the returns required by the above mentioned clause and section regularly until March, 1863, when he neglected to make the returns of goods manufactured by him, and sold and delivered during the month of February, 1863, within ten days after the first day of the following month. The assistant assessor in whose district the defendant is located, gave evidence showing that he reminded the defendant of his duty in this respect before the time for making these returns had expired, also of the consequences of neglect in this respect, and that the defendant did not comply with the law within the time allowed, and that thereupon he had estimated the amount of the defendant's manufactures and sales and delivery during the month of February, and had assessed the duty upon that estimate. The defence set up was inability to make the return within ten days after the first day of March, by reason of sickness, and that the return was made before the assessment was delivered to the Collector for collection.

The Judge instructed the jury that the sole question for their consideration was, whether the defendant did or did not make his return for February within ten days after the 1st day of March; that the seventy-first section, prescribing the penalty for not so doing, is unqualified and peremptory; that immediately on failure to make the return the penalty is incurred, and that no excuse is available as a defence to an action for such penalty. The counsel for the defendant requested the Judge to instruct the jury that there was evidence tending to show that the defendant had made his return within the ten days, and also that the defendant should not be prejudiced by the act of God; which requests were refused, and the counsel for the defendant excepted. The jury, after a few minutes' absence, returned a verdict for the United States.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The indulgence of New Year calls upon official dignitaries to-day has been very general. The clouds which had been sending down their showers for a day or two broke away at a tolerably early hour, and with the aid of the sun and a light wind which arose, the streets began to dry, so that pedestrians were soon moving freely about in their visitings.—Long before noon, great crowds, mostly of strangers, had collected outside the gates of the Presidential mansion, awaiting an entrance to pay their respects to the Chief Magistrate. In the meantime the Diplomatic and Cabinet Ministers began to arrive in carriages, the diplomats attracting largely the attention of the throng by reason of their court-dress and brilliant insignia of rank. Hon. Wm. H. Seward, the Secretary of State, was early at the mansion, and among the foreign representatives were Lord Lyons, Count de Mercier, Baron de Stoeckle, and the Ministers from Brazil, and the Netherlands, together with their attaches. Several of the diplomats were also accompanied by their ladies.

At 11 o'clock the officers of the army and navy and marine corps moved in a body from the Departments; the army officers headed by the General-in Chief, Major General Halleck, and staff, and the naval officers by Admiral Davis and Commodore Montgomery, the new commandant at the Washington navy-yard. Among the officers present were Generals Heintzelman, Stoneman, Thomas, Augur, Martindale, Griffin, Barry and others. Altogether there were some six hundred officers of the army, a greater number than ever before visited the President, and they all marched in to the music of the full Marine Band, which was in attendance, as usual on such occasions.

When at 12 o'clock the doors were thrown open to the public, the crowds, male and female, thronged in to the number of thousands in a continuous stream for two hours, passing to the right as they entered, and along through the Green and Blue Rooms into the Reception Room, where stood both Mr and Mrs. Lincoln, to receive all visitors. Marshal Lamon and Deputy Marshal Phillips made the presentations to the President, who cordially shook hands with each visitor, and Commissioner B. B. French made the presentations to Mrs Lincoln. Passing thence into the Great East Room, the visitors joined in the grand promenade, the band all the while discoursing animating airs, and finally departed over a platform through one of the large windows at the front. The superb carpetings in all the rooms were shielded from damage by a temporary covering. Among the visitors at an early hour was Mayor Wallach and the judges of the courts of the District.

Secretaries Seward, Stanton, Chase, Welles and Usher, and Postmaster General Blair, and Attorney General Bates, also received the calls of many visitors during the day at their respective residences, as also did Marshal Lamon, Mayor Wallach, John H. Semmes, Esq., president of the board of aldermen, and Asbury Lloyd, Esq., president of the board of common council, and some others, where, generally, especially among the corporation officials, there was a fine set-out, and some festivity and social enjoyment. The chief of police, Wm. P. Webb, Esq., had detailed twenty policemen for service at the President's house, and from two to four at the house of each cabinet member and the mayor, and the best of order was preserved at all points. In all the public offices, government and city, business was suspended, but generally the stores were open until late in the afternoon, when a disposition was manifested to close early, indicating social gatherings for the evening among the people. As usual upon such occasions, the pickpockets were at work, and a gentleman at the President's mansion, had his pocket picked of a wallet containing between two and three hundred dollars in greenbacks.

CAPTURED.—Colonel Boyd, of the Twelfth Pennsylvania Cavalry, (of General Kelly's Department,) has captured Hugh Logan, a citizen of Leitersburg, Pa., but engaged in the service of the enemy. Mr. Logan is noted as a "daring" rebel scout. He is the man who piloted Lee through the State of Pennsylvania at the time when Lee made his last invasion of the Northern States.—N. Y. Herald.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL.

GETTYSBURG:

Tuesday Evening, Jan. 5, 1864.

☞The Legislature of Pennsylvania assembles at Harrisburg to day. There may be some difficulty in the organization of the Senate, if the opposition take advantage of the absence of Major WHITE, now a prisoner at Richmond, which ties the Senate. We hope they will not, for propriety's sake, do so. If they should act so meanly, it may prevent the delivery of the Message of the Governor, until another election can be held to fill the vacancy.

The inauguration of Gov. Curtin for his next term of three years will take place on the 10th inst.

☞Both Houses of Congress will re-assemble to day, after the Holiday adjournment—and will, no doubt, get earnestly to work on the important matters which will call for their attention. No Congress ever assembled, which has so much of interest to occupy it. We have great confidence in the President and his Cabinet, and we have every assurance that the Representatives of the People, in Congress, will come up honestly, faithfully, and energetically, to the work before them.

☞On Wednesday last, the house and lot of DAVID MCMILLAN, sen., on Chambersburg street, was sold, at public auction, for $1,310. HIRAM MICKLEY was the purchaser.

☞On Thursday week, JACOB MCGUIGAN, son of Mr. McGuigan, of Cumberland township, whilst attending to the horses in the stable, was so badly kicked by one of them, that at last accounts his life was despaired of.

☞We observe, with gratification, that our brave friend, Lt. Col. FLANIGAN, of the 24th Michigan, who lost a leg in the first day's fight at Gettysburg, and was an inmate of our family for a number of weeks, until he was able to return to the City of Detroit, his residence, has been appointed Provost Marshal of the 1st Congressional District of Michigan. An admirable appointment—for, when and wherever promptness and energy are required, the Col. is "about." He is improving slowly, but hopes to be able, by Spring, to have a substitute leg for the one he lost here.

☞Sergeant BELLIS, of the 1st Md. Potomac Home Brigade, who lost a leg at Gettysburg, on Wednesday last received from Secretary Stanton a commission as 2d Lieutenant in the Invalid Corps, and is ordered to report at Washington. This is all right—reward the brave boys, wherever you can.

☞The wife of the Rebel General Gustavus W. Smith, and daughter of Captain Bassett, of New London, Conn, arrived suddenly at her father's house about two weeks ago. She had got through the Union lines in disguise, and had come North to remain, so she said. Since her arrival she has been avowing the most disloyal sentiments, and exhibiting such rancor and violence as could not be tolerated. The case was reported to Washington, and the result was that on Monday evening the woman left New London in charge of an army officer, to be handed over to General Butler at Fortress Monroe, and by him returned across the lines to her Rebel friends.

☞Gov. Curtin's last annual message of his first term will be delivered to the Legislature as soon as it is organized, and it will present a record for Pennsylvania of which every loyal heart will be proud.—Our finances in the midst of this gigantic war, and with all the vast demands upon the resources of the State, will present a most flattering balance-sheet, and the credit of the Commonwealth is to-day second to the credit of no other State, and better, if possible, than that of the National government. The report of the Treasurer will show an available balance of over $2,000,000 in the Treasury, while but half that sum will be necessary to meet the February interest; and the forth-coming report of Adj. General Russell will show that Pennsylvania has done more than her whole duty in responding to the calls of the government for men to meet the murderous traitors in the field.—Franklin Rep.

☞The emigration from Europe to the U. States continues to be very large, notwithstanding it is the depth of winter.—The number landed at New York in the last week was 2,620, swelling the number since the 1st of Jan. 1863, (one year,) to 155,223. In 1862, there were 76,306—less than one-half of the past year.

☞The total enlistments in the City of New York, under the last call of the President, have reached about 3,000, leaving but a few hundred more to fill up the quota, and save a draft.

ARRESTS IN NEW YORK.—Five New York merchants were arrested in that city on Thursday, charged with sending contraband goods to the South. They will be sent to Fort Lafayette. Several parties were also arrested for having in their possession plates intended for the purpose of Confederate notes.

What the Soldiers Think of Gen. McClellan.

The editor of the Delaware County Republican recently asked a soldier of the Army of the Potomac, what the men there now think of McClellan. "Why," says he, "he is never mentioned but by the rankest kind of copperheads. He's played out. His Woodward letter was the finishing stroke. The men who once would have followed him anywhere now look on him with suspicion and regard his loyalty with distrust."

The fact of it is that the pro-slavery pre-pigandist, or he who would make the Union subservient to slavery, carries with him but very little of public sympathy. He is no longer sustained by the people or army. Down in Dixie is his true sphere and not in the free North.

A Contrast.

At Richmond the rebel government have decided that all the Confederate soldiers must continue in service during the war.—There will be no relief given to the men who have borne the rebel colors in every engagement since the war began. The troops are held in service while the war lasts. Why this is done is plain and explicit. Not a single man of the rebel armies will re-enlist. Dissatisfied, discontented, the soldiers will never serve of their own free will, and it will be dangerous to conscript the disciplined levies when action has rendered them inured to danger, and whose wild life has rendered them reckless and uncontrolable.

At Washington different counsels prevail. The Union soldiers have been granted full liberty to act according to their own will and pleasure in the matter of re-enlisting. The unanimity with which they have re-entered the Union ranks has been been a signal evidence of their devotion to liberty.

Auditors—Peter Dick, Hamiltonban; Joseph H. Shireman, Hamilton; John Elder, Berwick township.

☞A gentleman of New Oxford said to us, the other day, that he heard nothing there of the establishment of a National Bank at that place. The "Hanover Spectator" must have been misinformed.

☞A paragraph floating about in our exchanges, containing the assertion of a "veteran officer," in a letter to the "Army and Navy Register," that though the Regulars sustained a heavy loss in the battle of Gettysburg, there was no plot assigned for the burial of their dead in the National Cemetery—was copied into our last issue. We allude to the matter for the purpose of correcting the statement of the officer in question. A plot has been assigned for the burial of the Regulars in the National Cemetery, and already, Mr. Wills, the agent of Gov. Curtin, informs us, about one hundred named bodies have been removed to it, in the same manner and with the same care that all other soldiers are. The portion set apart for the Regulars is in the south-east end of the inner row of State lots, and will in every way be cared for as the other portions of the ground. All papers that have copied the paragraph alluded to should make the proper correction, for the comfort of the friends of the Regulars who fell here on the memorable three first days of July last.

☞Archbishop Hughes, of New York, was very ill night before last; and a rumor says he is dead.

☞The mercury was but 1 degree above zero here on Saturday morning.—At Cincinnati it was 7 below; at Indianapolis 29 below; at Buffalo 8.

United States Cemetery at Chattanooga.—The grounds for a United States Cemetery at Chattanooga have been selected. A special dispatch from there states that one hundred men were put to work on them recently. A national monument is to be placed in the centre, similar to that at Gettysburg. A dispatch dated Chattanooga, Dec. 19, states that all the killed, and those who have died in hospitals, and buried in the town, are being disinterred and placed in the United States Cemetery.

☞All accounts from our different armies concur in stating as a fact that the three years men, whose terms are expiring, are re-enlisting by companies, regiments and brigades, and the probability is that three-fourths of them will re-enlist for the war says the New York Herald.

Heavy Robbery.—A gentleman traveling in a stage coach some days since, between St. Paul and La Crosse, Wisconsin, was robbed of thirty-five thousand dollars in United States bonds, which he was carrying to Washington for the new national bank at St. Paul.

☞Europe maintains under arms in time of peace, 3,815,117 men, at an expense in $700,000,000.

For the Adams Sentinel.

MILITARY PRISON, CAMP CHASE, OHIO, Dec. 28th, 1863.

Mr. Editor:—Permit me, through the medium of your columns, to make inquiry concerning JOHN A. PAINTER, (brother), FRANKLIN MCNETT and NOAH HUFF, whom I suppose to be somewhere in the vicinity of Gettysburg, Pa. Any information of the above named persons will be thankfully received. My Address is,

WILLIAM J. PAINTER,
Prison No. "2" Mess "18,"
Camp Chase, Ohio.

Progress of Volunteering.

Great efforts are making in several of the States to avoid the draft by volunteering. A letter from Indianapolis, Indiana, says:

Ten thousand volunteers towards filling Indiana's quota under the President's last call have already been reported at the Adj. General's office, and many recruiting stations are not heard from. This city has filled her quota, and volunteering throughout the State is progressing as actively as ever. It may be set down as certain that there will be no draft in Indiana. In the way of enlisting negroes a great business is driven. Negroes are seen in uniform throughout our streets.

The Chicago (Ill.) papers state that 1500 volunteers have been secured in that city and county, and but 2,000 more are required to fill up the quota, so that no draft is probable.

☞Congress was brought to an unexpected test on the employment of negro troops last week, by Mr. Harding, Border State Copperhead. When the bill providing for bounties to volunteers was under consideration, the "friends" of Jeff Davis were quibbling and dodging about as usual, when Mr. Harding, who don't disguise his rebel proclivities, moved to amend by providing that no part of the fund should be used to recruit negro troops. It threw the rebel stool pigeons into a fearful flutter when the yeas and nays were called; but the call was insisted upon and they had to face the music. Fernando Wood, the leader of the Peace men, bolted square and voted to pay bounty to negro troops, and with him went half a dozen others from New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, including Bailey, of this State; but Coffroth and all the Pennsylvania Copperheads voted with Harding against offering any encouragement for the enlistment of negroes. The amendment was, however, defeated by the decisive vote of 105 to 41. Will so an body remind Gen. Coffroth that he is a member of the United States, and not of the rebel Congress?—Repository.

☞Eighteen months ago, Gen. McClellan was the idol of the North, honored with the command of its largest army, and so trusted that it was said that he could do nothing which the people would not approve. Last week he was formally nominated for the Presidency, and so insignificant is the event that it is barely printed as an ordinary news item, and has not been editorially mentioned by the very journals which once praised him to an excess that might have made a Napoleon blush. This sudden celebrity, this speedy decline into obscurity, has the strangeness of romance with the moral of a sermon.

☞It is conceded, I believe, that Hon. Eli Slifer, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and Hon. Wm. M. Meredith, Attorney General, will be continued in their respective positions by Gov. Curtin. They have so discharged their arduous duties as to win the confidence of the people of the State and it would be most difficult to supplant them with men equally efficient and acceptable. Mr. Slifer has been two years in the House; three in the Senate; three years State Treasurer, and now three years Secretary of the Commonwealth; and in every position to which he has been called he has more than vindicated the partiality of his many friends. Mr. Meredith has filled a wider sphere; has been Legislator, member of the Constitutional Convention, Secretary of the Treasury, now Attorney General, and has for many years stood confessedly at the head of the bar of the State. He has been of most essential service to the Commonwealth in the collection of outstanding claims, and has commanded a measure of respect for his official acts and opinions hitherto unknown in the history of his Department.—Franklin Repository.

HARRISBURG, Dec 31.—Major Francis Jordan, of Bedford, has accepted his appointment as State Agent of Pennsylvania Volunteers in Washington, and has sent in his resignation as paymaster in the United States army at St. Louis.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PAYING THE POSTAGE IN FULL.—The law is, when anything is put into the postoffice underpaid the sum which remains due shall be paid double by the receiver. Thus, if John Smith sends Jim Jones a letter rated at six cents, but pays three cents only, it is not kept back like an unpaid letter, but Jim Jones at the end has the six cents to pay. And so of all packages through the mail. This extra charge of thirty-three per cent. we suppose is to make people more careful to know that they pay enough, and to compensate for extra trouble and risk. Letters are three cents per half ounce—six cents per ounce—and so on, each fraction over one-half ounce or one ounce counting three cents. This applies to all mailable matter, sealed or unsealed, except newspapers, which rate at two cents for each four ounces, and books and pamphlets, which rate at four cents each four ounces.

☞EASILY CAUGHT BUT NOT RID OF EASY.—Colds are the most really dangerous of ordinary ills and we advise those suffering, &c, to try a few of Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers. They are very pleasant, efficacious and cheap. 25 cents a box at A. D. BUEHLER'S.

Southern Women and the War.

A correspondent of the Chicago (Union) Journal, writing from Chattanooga, says:

I shall never be done admiring the patriotic faith and undying devotion of the loyal women of the land, but I must tell you that the rebel women at the South are worthy to everything but the sacred cause of their Northern sisters. There is nothing they will not surrender with a smile; the gemmed ring, the diamond bracelet, the rich wardrobe. They cut up the rich carpets for soldiers' blankets without a sigh; they take the fine linen from their persons for bandages. When four hundred of Longstreet's men came up to Nashville prisoners of war, about the roughest, dirtiest, wildest fellows the sun ever shone on, and a flight of stairs in the building they occupied fell, killing and wounding a large number of them, you should have seen the fair young traitresses come forth from their old aristocratic mansions, bearing restoratives and delicacies in their hands, mingling in the dingy crowd, wiping away the blood with their white handkerchiefs and uttering words of cheer; should have seen them doing this, with hundreds of Union soldiers all around, and smiling back upon the rough blackguards of rebels as they left.

But in all there was a defiant air, a pride in their humanity strange to see. Of a truth they carried it off grandly. And although most all those girls were in mourning for dead rebels—brothers, lovers, friends—whom these same girls had sneered into treason and driven into rebellion, and pillowed all the South with their graves, and the least they could do was to wear black for them and flaunt black from the window blinds. Clothed be their souls in sackcloth! I said they were worthy of their sisters at the North, in all but a righteous cause, but I said wrong. There is a bitterness, there are glimpses of the Pythoness, that make you shrink from them. But they are fearfully in earnest; they are almost grand in self-sacrifice. Oh! that they were true and loving daughters of the old flag.

ANOTHER FEMALE SOLDIER.—Lizzie Compton, a bright young lady of sixteen, arrived in the city yesterday from Bardstown, where she had been encamped with her regiment, 11th Kentucky Cavalry, of which she has been a member for several months past. Her history, during the past eighteen months, is strange and romantic. She has served in seven different regiments, and participated in several battles. At Fredericksburg she was seriously wounded but recovered, and followed the fortunes of war, which cast her from the Army of the Potomac to the Army of Cumberland. She fought in the battle of Green River Bridge, on the Fourth of July last, and received a wound which disabled her for a short time. She has been discovered and mastered out of the service seven or eight times, but immediately re-enlisted in another regiment. She states that her home is in London, Canada West, and that her parents are now living in that place. This young girl has served a term of eighteen months in the army, and, were it not that she dreads the annoyance of being detected and mustered out, she would enter the service again.

She was sent to this city by the officer in command at Bardstown to be again mustered out, and is now at Barrack No. 1, awaiting orders.—Louisville Journal.

THE HERO OF THE COMMISSARY DEPARTMENT.—During the dark days of the siege, when food and forage were scarce and the ghastly corpses and bleached skeletons of starved mules lined the thoroughfares thereabouts, General Grant and Quartermaster General Meigs arrived in Chattanooga. Taking an airing on horseback one afternoon, they passed the carcass of a huge mule lying by the roadside, whose "ill savor went up" before and around them. The hero of Vicksburg removed his brier root from his lips, and remarked sorrowfully, "Ah, General, there lies a dead soldier of the Quartermaster's Department." "Yes, General," replied the Quartermaster General, in subdued tones, "in him you see the ruling passion strong in death exemplified, for the old veteran has already assumed the offensive."

NEWBERN, N. C., Dec. 27.—The North Carolina Times says that a five-dollar gold piece was sold at auction for $150 in Confederate notes at Danville a few days since.

The same paper heartily endorses President Lincoln's recent proclamation, and advises the people of the State to accept it. It also copies and endorses a remarkable article from the Richmond Whig, which contains the following significant paragraph:

"Slavery has stabbed itself to death. It has sinned against light—committed the unpardonable sin, and must die."

The Raleigh Standard and the Raleigh Progress are very severe in their criticisms on Jeff Davis' message. They publish President Lincoln's message and proclamation, with favorable comments.

CHATTANOOGA, Dec 30.—Convalescents of the 4th Army Corps and recruits for the 13th and 125th Ohio en route for Knoxville in charge of a train, had a fight with Wheeler on Monday morning. From the official account I learn the following particulars: The Federals attempted to cross the Hiawassee at Charleston, where they were threatened by Wheeler's cavalry 1,500 strong. Col. Laibold, of the 20th Missouri, commanding, formed in line of battle, got the train over, charged on Wheeler, killing and wounding a few rebels, and drove them in confusion.

Long's cavalry pursued them, whipping the rebels badly, but Wheeler got away with his four guns, leaving five officers, including an Inspector General and Surgeon, and 126 men in our hands, besides a few killed and wounded, and many small arms. Our loss is ten wounded and one missing of Wood's division, and four wounded of Sheridan's.

The 6th Ohio Battery has re-enlisted, and go home to-day.

THE TAX ON MANUFACTURES.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that manufactures from manufactured articles, upon which the three per cent. tax has been paid, are subject, nevertheless, to be taxed as manufactures, to their full value, if the second manufacturer has added five per cent, to the value of the article of which it is composed.

☞Soldiers and officers in the Army, being exposed to sudden changes, should always be supplied with "Brown's Bronchial Troches," as they give prompt relief in a Cold, Cough, or an Irritated Throat.

The Presidency.

The Philadelphia North American, in an article on the next Presidency, declares in favor of the re-nomination of Mr. Lincoln. It says:

Aside from and in addition to these things, there are reasons and influences with Mr. Lincoln which are not possessed by any of those who might be named in opposition to him. Mere military candidates would encounter some objections, in some sections, springing from the very nature of their eminence, which might not involve other qualifications even more desirable. Civilians, unacquainted altogether with military matters, would, or might be, deficient in that military knowledge which is now, and will, for a greater or less period, continue to be useful. Mr. Lincoln comprises that degree of military knowledge which is needful, without that amount which renders its possessor principally a military man. He knows the history already written—the objects now sought—the means which are possible—the objections which can be urged. And he knows these things from no circumscribed field, but from the very highest stand-point. Can more be said for any one?

Undoubtedly, the most unanimous opinion possible is the requirement for the ensuing election. Our remarks seek to indicate only some of the reasons which can be adduced in behalf of a nomination which seems to us most natural of all, and which we think would unite the popular feeling throughout the loyal States. There is a sufficiency of time in which to discuss this matter before the National Convention shall be assembled. It only requires that the matter be opened, pro and con., and all opinions digested in the light of the most sound and patriotic feelings, to reach a conclusion whose correctness will be verified by the people's verdict. Gen. Grant may, possibly, have warmer friends in some portions of the west. Gen. Banks may be more potentially urged in New England.—Is there any man who will command more of the confidence of the people anywhere, any man whose mere nomination will make a greater weight in behalf of the Union; any man who will more assuredly sacrifice individual interests to the general good; any man who will command a higher degree of foreign respect than that one who has superadded to some of the most excellent characteristics of Jackson, others which Jackson was never called upon to exhibit.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT IN KENTUCKY.—Lieutenant Governor Jacobs, in his address to the Legislature of Kentucky, uses the following noble and spirited language:

"Loyalty to the Union, as in the past, is the only safety to ourselves, our property, and all the dear and sacred rights that we possess. If we resist, it must be in the Union, and under the flag of Washington, with the millions of strong hearts and strong arms that we possess in the loyal North. Throw away these resources as the South madly did, we would be crushed as she will be, and as we would deserve to be, for being recreant to the great rights bequeathed to us by our fathers. No, no! Come what may, come what will, let Kentucky be true. It is not only the path of honor, but the path of safety; any other is the path of destruction. She is not fighting for the preservation of Slavery, nor is she fighting for its destruction. Incidentally, if it goes down in maintaining the Union, well and good; incidentally, if it is saved in preserving the Union, well and good. What is Slavery? What is any species of property to her in comparison with the blood of her heroic children?—Yet she has freely offered up their lives without a murmur. She will do so still! All she asks, let these enormous sacrifices be not in defiance of the Constitution, but incidentally for a prosecution of a war for the maintenance of the Union and the Constitution; and when these blessings are secured, the war should and ought to cease. In Mr. Seward's language: 'We are under obligations to save not only the unity and integrity of the country, but also its inestimable and precious Constitution.'"

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27.—The Times says that a five-dollar gold piece was sold at auction for $159 in Confederate notes at Danville a few days since.

☞Does the Administration fail to reconcile the States it has redeemed from rebellion to itself and to the Union? We shall see, by the following fair estimate of the number of men enlisted in Tennessee for the Union army:

Cavalry	12,000
Cavalry mustered into the service in new regiments not full	1,300
Infantry	11,000
Artillery	1,100
Infantry (negroes)	6,960
Artillery (negroes)	2,000
Total	33,360

Could stronger proof be given to the falsehood of that party which says the Government is widening the breach between the South and the North? Remember what Tennessee was, consider what she is, and give some credit to an Administration which has effected such a mighty transformation.

A Deserter Sentenced to be Shot.

WASHINGTON, December 31.—Before a General Court Martial, which convened at Philadelphia, private Bernard Develin, of the 81st Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, was tried and found guilty of desertion and conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline. It appears that this private deserted while on detached service from his regiment, and never having been discharged therefrom, presented himself as a substitute for a drafted man in the 5th District of Pennsylvania, and as such was mustered into the service of the United States. He was sent to the barracks for substitutes and drafted men, where he was apprehended. The Court sentenced him to be shot unto death by musketry. The Major General Commanding, Couch, has approved the finding and sentence, which will be carried into effect on the 5th of February next.

☞Fifty of Forrest's guerillas, a Colonel, Major and Chaplain, were captured by General Dodge's mounted infantry, near Pulaski, Tennessee, on the 26th ult., three of them in chains, charged with the murder of Federal soldiers last summer. The skulls of the murdered men, placed as ornaments on the mantelpiece, were found in their room.

Seven members of the Sixth Ohio Battery have been captured by the Rebels near Tullahoma, and brutally murdered. They were tied to trees, shot, and their bodies thrown into the river.

A Brilliant Raid.

Gen. Averill has just made one of the most brilliant raids of the war in West Virginia. We subjoin his official report:

EDRAY, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, Dec. 21, via BEVERLY, Dec. 23.—To Maj. Gen. Halleck, General in-Chief—I have the honor to report that I cut the Virginia and Tennessee railroad at Salem, on the 16th inst., and have arrived safely at this point with my command, consisting of the 2d, 3d, and 8th Virginia Mounted Infantry, 14th Pennsylvania (Dobson's) battalion of cavalry, and Ewing's battery.

At Salem three depots were destroyed, containing 2,000 barrels flour, 10,000 bushels wheat, 100,000 bushels shelled corn, 50,000 bushels oats, 2000 barrels meat, several cords of leather, 1000 sacks of salt 31 boxes clothing, 29 bales cotton, a large amount of saddles, equipments, tools, oil, tar, and various other stores, and 100 wagons. The telegraph wire was cut down and posts burned for half a mile. The water stations, turn-tables and three cars were burned, and the track torn up and rails heated and destroyed as much as possible in six hours. Five bridges and several culverts were destroyed over an extent of fifteen miles. A large quantity of bridge timber and repairing materials were also destroyed.

My march was retarded occasionally by the tempest in the mountains and the icy roads. I was obliged to swim my command and drag my artillery with ropes across Crog's creek seven times in twenty-four hours. On my return I found six separate commands under Generals Early, Jones, Fitz Lee, Imboden, Jackson, Echols McCausland, arranged in a line extending from Staunton to Newport, upon all the available roads, to prevent my return.

I captured a dispatch from Gen. Jones to Gen. Early, giving me the position, and that of Jackson, at Clifton Forge and Covington, selected to be carried. I marched from the front of Jones to that of Jackson, during the night. His outposts were pressed in at a gallop by the 8th Virginia mounted infantry, and the two bridges across Jackson's river saved, although faggots had been piled ready to ignite. My column, about seven miles long, hastened across, regardless of the enemy until all but my ambulances, a few wagons and one regiment had passed, when a strong effort was made to retake the first bridge, which did not succeed.

The ambulances and some sick men were lost, and by the darkness and difficulties the last regiment was detained upon the opposite side until morning, when it was ascertained that the enemy seemed determined to maintain his position up the cliffs which overlooked the bridge. I caused the bridges, which were long and high, to be destroyed, and the enemy immediately changed his position to the flank and rear of the detachment which was cut off. I sent orders to the remnant to destroy our wagons and come to me across the river or over the mountains. They swam the river, with the loss of four men drowned, and joined me.

In the meantime the forces of the enemy were concentrating upon me at Collaghan's, on every available road but one, which was deemed impracticable, but by which I crossed over the top of the Alleghenies with my command with the exception of four caissons, which were destroyed in order to increase the teams of the pieces. My loss is six men drowned, one officer and four men wounded, and four officers and ninety men missing.

We captured about 200 prisoners, but have retained but 4 officers and 80 men, on account of their inability to walk. We took also about 150 horses. My men and horses have subsisted entirely upon a very poor country, and the officers and men have suffered cold, hunger and fatigue with remarkable fortitude.

My command has marched, climbed, slid and swam 355 miles since the 8th inst.

W. W. AVERILL, Brig. Gen.

HARPER'S FERRY, Jan. 1.—There has been considerable movement of troops in this neighborhood to day, it having been reported here that the rebel General Early, with the cavalry commands of Imboden and Jones, are moving down the Valley with the intention of attacking our troops at Winchester.

A force of Rebels, about three thousand strong, are now said to be at Berryville.

Gen. Averill is concentrating a force of cavalry, infantry and artillery at Martinsburg, in order to meet the Rebels and give them a proper reception.

The Rebels yesterday captured Capt. Phillips, of a Penn. regiment, and ten men, whilst on picket duty at Bunker Hill.

The First Regiment Potomac Home Brigade, together with all the troops at Harper's Ferry, are under marching orders, and three days' rations have also been issued.

General Kelly is taking every precaution and making all preparations to protect his outposts and seperate commands.

Why the Rebels dislike Gen. Dana.

He is not at all liked by some of our "deluded Southern brethren," who call him another "Beast Butler."

It is true the General has "made war on women and children," by requiring a too flippant rebel lady to take the oath. He has refused to discuss the rights of a violent rebel, who desires to live here in the prosecution of his business without swearing allegiance. He has returned a present with the caustic reply that, coming from a traitor, the bribe for favor was too small to purchase a general officer of the United States; and he has fined an officious meddler of "itinerant politics"—for what offence is not known, as on the same day the man advised a party to refuse the national currency, got drunk, insulted our courteous provost marshal, Capt. Altman, and was kicked out of doors by Capt. Speed, of the 1st Texas Cavalry. It is presumed he was fined for getting kicked—while retreating.

Heavy Snow Storm.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The heaviest and most extensive snow storm known in the West for many years commenced last night and still continues. Despatches received represent it as exceedingly severe beyond the Mississippi and north as far as Green Bay, while south it extended as far as Springfield. The snow has drifted so that the several railroads are completely blocked up. The storm is expected to have been violent in Iowa.
